The DRESDEN-concept science exhibition is a project of 24 Dresden-based research institutions. It presents complex scientific topics and current research results in a comprehensible way, using exhibits. In 2016, the science exhibition was held in Dresden for the first time. It then moved to London and will now take place in Wrocław – followed by a display in Prague in 2018. A series of events organised by the DRESDEN-concept partners and the universities in Wrocław will accompany the exhibition. www.dresden-concept.de
